Build-a-Bike Event Touches Kids' Lives Partnering with Three Detroit-Area Charities.

Farmington Hills, Mich., March 22, 2010 – The Building Owners and Managers Association of Metro Detroit (BOMA) is holding their annual Build-a-Bike event to help three Detroit-area charities. BOMA members and volunteers from all over the Commercial Real Estate industry will build bikes for Big Brothers Big Sisters, Grace Centers of Hope in Pontiac, and Mt. Zion Christian Church in Clarkston on Thursday, March 25 at the Southfield Town Center Atrium.

BOMA of Metro Detroit's membership is rolling up their sleeves and getting ready to help needy children in our area. They are sponsoring 55 bikes for three charities that connect with kids in need. Boxes of unassembled bikes and dozens of toolboxes will line the Southfield Town Center Atrium floor this Thursday and BOMA of Metro Detroit is doing what it can to make a difference and impact the lives of the less fortunate in our community.

BOMA of Metro Detroit is encouraging the local media to visit the event and see one of the great ways we help our community. Representatives from Mt. Zion and Big Brothers Big Sisters will be onsite to participate in this powerful annual program.

BOMA Works is community-based program from BOMA of Metro Detroit is aimed at continuing to build and strengthen relationships within our communities where we work, live and play. Falling under the umbrella of the Community Affairs Committee, the BOMA Works events will focus on fostering teamwork and giving back to the community.

For more information on the BOMA Works program and/or the Community Affairs Committee, please contact Janet Langlois, BOMA of Metro Detroit Executive Director at 248-848-3714 or at jlanglois@bomadet.org.
